About

I am a front-end and interactive developer passionate about creating responsive and accessible web applications. My experience includes complex animation for ad banners, and project work in React as part of my schooling. I work well in a team, including direct client interaction. I analyze projects quickly and am prepared with refining questions for clients. I communicate well with managers and always provide end of day updates for my team. I developed my attention to detail from previous experiences in customer service and medical administration. I am a continuous learner, and am looking to add more technologies to my skillset.
